

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary is a gross example of the dangers of corporate control over the media. This documentary is not journalism, and presenting it as such does a grave disservice to the public. The FCC should take action against Sinclair Broadcasting and should consider these types of problems when formulating its licensing procedures.